It doesn't matter what business you're in, lead generation is important - how else will you grow your business and get new wonderful people to serve? As a small business owner, it's clear you need a system to follow that helps you generate new customers and team members so you can grow your business. After all, lead generation systems help pique consumer interest in your products and services. However, so many people, especially network marketers, don't have a system to generate new leads. And they wonder why their business isn't growing. When relationships are your business - and they are, regardless of the type of business you're in - the standard go-for-no approach just won't cut it. If you're reading this book, you've probably experienced this first-hand and may be feeling frustrated that 1) you feel as if your business isn't getting anywhere, 2) your family, friends, and acquaintances are making an effort to see you less and less in fear that you're going to try to sell them something, and 3) you have to start back at square one whenever you want to make a sale. It's so frustrating! It's also no way to build a strong, lasting business. That's where relationship marketing comes in. Relationship marketing is a proven lead generation system intended to grow your business by leveraging your relationships. That's right; instead of damaging relationships and burning bridges, relationship marketing encourages you to nurture and grow your relationships. In other words, you don't ever have to be an "icky salesperson"! If you seek to build a business that allows you to work from your heart, that doesn't compromise your personal core principles, and that encourages you to help and serve more people, relationship marketing may be for you. Over the last few years, I've built Teamzy, a CRM system intended to turn traditional network marketing on its head. How? It's based on relationships, specifically growing and developing relationships with your favorite people so you can serve and help them meet their needs, which is oh so often contrary to the sales status quo. The more you connect with them, the more likely they are to recommend your business to their family and friends who could use a bit of your help. The results speak for themselves. People who are turned off by traditional selling methods love our relationship-oriented system that encourages them to make people's days instead of always trying to sell to them. They're watching their businesses grow exponentially, beyond what they could've imagined when they started in the business. That's right; by maintaining consistent contact with their customers, seeking to meet their needs and following up, they're building solid businesses that last, all in less than an hour a day. The best part is, it doesn't feel like work. After all, you're doing what you do best - connecting with your customers - and along the way, you'll build trust and long-term business advocates. What's better than that? Nothing. I'm excited

Can your software sell itself? Convention and the trillion-dollar sales industry claim that it's impossible for your product to sell itself. Yet successful software businesses like Slack, Dropbox, Atlassian, and HubSpot make millions selling to customers who never once reached out to a sales rep. In Product-Led Growth: How to Build a Product That Sells Itself, growth consultant Wes Bush challenges the traditional SaaS marketing and sales playbook and introduces a completely new way to sell products. Bush reveals how your product--not expensive sales teams--can be the main vehicle to acquire, convert, and retain customers. In this step-by-step guide to Product-Led Growth, Bush explains: Why you should flip the traditional sales process on its head and turn your product into a sales machine; How to decide whether your business should use a free trial, freemium, or hybrid model; How to turn free users into happy, paying customers. History tells us that "how" you sell is just as important as "what" you sell. Blockbuster couldn't compete with Netflix by selling the same digital content, and you need to decide "when" not "if" you'll innovate on the way you sell. Are you going to be product-led? Or will you be disrupted, too?
